

WASHINGTON

Community High School District 308

July 31, 2020

Dear Parents/Guardians,

Over the past several weeks we have shared a lot of information about our return to school plan. As you may recall, we outlined the principles that guide our decisions, the minimum requirements for returning to in-person instruction, the school-wide schedule, registration information, safety procedures for minimizing health risk, and most recently the distance learning option. Next week we will send a communication that provides more information about in-person learning, so watch for that information. We encourage you to review our past communications before you complete online registration July 31 – August 7.

Do you have a question?

We recognize that you are receiving a lot of information from the district right now, and it is natural to have questions during a time of change. We have created two resources we think will help.

- Find the answers to common questions by visiting the Return to School Questions and Answers document. This is an evolving document, and it will be updated often with new information.
- Send your questions to the district using the online Questions form. Frequently asked questions will be added to our Return to School Questions and Answers Document so everyone can benefit from the answer.

In the midst of decisions, changing guidance, and planning we remain focused on our students. They are the reason we are educators, and we are working hard to deliver quality education and support them during this time of uncertainty. We look forward to welcoming them back either in-person or at home because they have been greatly missed.

We will continue to send communications each week before school starting, so look for more information soon. If you have questions please submit them, or contact the school so we can assist you.

Sincerely,

Dr. Kyle W. Freeman
